A Troubling Legacy: Eugenic Boundaries on Reproduction

Paul A. Lombardo, PhD, JD
Regents’ Professor
Bobby Lee Cook Professor of Law
Georgia State University College of Law

Paul A. Lombardo is a lawyer and historian who served from 2011-2016 as a senior advisor to the Presidential Commission for the Study of Bioethical Issues, where he participated in studies such as “Ethically Impossible”: STD Research in Guatemala from 1946-1948 (2011). He has published extensively on topics in health law, medico-legal history, and bioethics and is best known for his work on the legal history of the American eugenics movement.

2:00 – 2:45 pm: Seminar by Paul A. Lombardo, PhD, JD
2:50 – 3:35 pm: Panel Discussion on Genetics and Ethical Issues with Peter Donovan PhD, Michele Goodwin JD, and Michael Zaragoza MD, PhD

Friday, April 21, 2017
Institution: University of California, Irvine
Sue & Bill Gross Hall
Thorp Conference Center 4000

Co-hosted by the UCI Stem Cell Research Center; UCI Law Center for Biotechnology & Global Health Policy; the Program in Medical Ethics, UCI School of Medicine; UC Irvine Medical Humanities Initiative

Light refreshments provided